

Overview

Use the job aid to create and manage lessons. Standalone lessons are a single piece of content, which typically have a narrow focus on a single subject. They can be a recorded lecture, a course guide, a job aid, a video, a software simulation, or any other item which a learner can access on their own as a single unit.

Approvals

The Learning Coordinator will receive a task to review new lessons submitted by Content Creators. If the Learning Coordinator is creating a course there will not be a review step in the process.
